THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

A WEEKLY SCHOOL STORY OF SCHOOL NEWS FOR SCHOOL SUPPORTERS AND SCHOOL PATRONS UNDER THE DIRECTION AND SUPERVISION OF THE FACULTY AND EDITED BY MISS BEULAH CURL

"Health Day."

The biggest thing that has ever happened in connection with the schools of our city was the celebration of "Health Day" in the Ramble school on last Friday. The Health program was arranged and carried out on a gigantic scale. The manner of the celebration was original with the Ramble school teachers and was conducted under the direction of the School Improvement Association of that district.

The program was an all-day affair beginning with the 9 o'clock assembly and ending at the close of the S. I. A. meeting in the afternoon. During the entire day instructive and catchy numbers in the form of plays, jingles, songs, etc., were rendered by the children, and short pointed addresses were given by physicians and others vitally interested in health for the community. The day was one of intense enthusiasm and will mean much in the campaign for clean surroundings and healthful living.

Among the speakers of the day were Mr. C. F. Allen, Principal of the High School, Mr. Hamp Williams, Rabbi Dr. Rhine, Rev. Hickok, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. H. B. Trimble, pastor of Central Methodist church, Dr. Minor, Dr. Ellsworth, Dr. Rosa B. Rowland, Dr. Berrow, Dr. Durand, Dr. Pailard, Mr. W. C. Chamberlin, principal of Ramble school and Supt. M. Rose.

A large number of patrons and others not connected with the schools attended the afternoon meeting of the S. I. A. The addresses were directed to the parents and contained many valuable suggestions regarding the preservation of the child.

Music was rendered, by Miss Josephine Brown.

The school rooms were elaborately decorated by placards, cartoons and health banners all made by the students. In the course of the day five hundred fly-swatters were given out by the ladies of the S. I. A. The screening for these swatters was donated by Messrs. David Dodd and Harry Whipple, both Park avenue property holders, and the handles were given by the Missouri Lumber Co. A party of enthusiastic Ramble school patrons met the evening before and tackled the swatters which were to be received with such open delight by this young army corps of health campaigners.

Samples of tooth-paste were provided by the Morris Drug Co., and every child not owning a tooth brush at the time was given one by the S. I. A.

It was a big day not only in the history of Ramble school but the history of the entire school system, since it betokens the great movement toward health education, than which no plainer, surer way can be found for improving the health conditions of our homes and community.

Health Notes.

The following notes were taken from the addresses given at Ramble school last Friday in the course of the Health program. We wish that the addresses themselves might be reproduced, but since these were so many that not even an adequate review of them could be given in these columns we merely give these paragraphs as a reflection of the treat which those who were fortunate enough to be in Ramble school on Health Day received.

Mr. Allen was received with great applause by the children with whom he is a great favorite since he won such a large place in their hearts during his two years' principalship at Ramble school. In his talk he mentioned several common habits dangerous to health, warning the children against them, such as running the hand along the banisters in a public place and then carelessly brushing the hand across the face. He called attention to a barbed wire trailing dangerously beside the broken steps which lead from Ravine street to the school ground. The barbed wire being private property could only be pushed back so as to be less in the way; but some of the fourth grade boys knowing that there was also a poison ivy vine trailing dangerously near those steps went down at noon and with much effort and care succeeded in digging it up by the roots. The basis of the Health Day movement is that children are eager to do whatever they know how to do.

Mr. Hamp Williams, always interested in the school children, visited the school in the morning, speaking of the Booneville Sanatorium for tuberculosis. The little children were much impressed with his picture of fortune and misfortune and the lesson taught in the proper care of their health while young. With the upper grades Mr. Williams went more into detail, describing the life and treatment at the sanatorium and telling how admittance might be gained should it become necessary.

Dr. Berrow's address to the children was full of beneficial knowledge and practical suggestions which the children readily appreciated, such as, washing the hands often and forming habits of neatness and system both at home and at school.

Mr. Rose spoke before every grade and his story of "Mrs. Fly and her more than a hundred children," was firmly implanted in the minds of 500 children. These 500 children are always glad to see and hear their superintendent, and they will doubtless remember the story of the dangerous "widow" as long as they see flies. This, however, may not be very long, for with 500 fly-swatters running amuck the people of the Ramble school district are not expecting to see many flies this summer. Before the S. I. A. Mr. Rose spoke very briefly, calling attention to the need of a school physician or a school nurse.

Dr. Rosa Rowland gave instructive talks to the children on the eyes, their use and abuse. Many things which she said were a startling revelation to the little ones and were received with cordial interest.

Rabbi Rhine in his masterful address before the students of the upper grades spoke briefly of the soul, of the mind, and at length of the body. He said that the preachers are our leaders in matters that pertain to the caring for our souls; and that the teachers are concerned largely with the training of the mind. Then he laid stress upon perfect physical development, advocating a well-equipped and adequate play-ground and a physical director. This physical director would see that not just one muscle was exercised, but that every muscle in the body received the proper exercise to promote development.

Dr. Minor before the S. I. A. spoke of sanitation, its absolute necessity to health, the advances made in methods of sanitation and in the study and practice of hygiene. Among other illustrious names connected with this advance he emphasized that of Dr. W. Deaderick, now of our city. He also spoke of the all-important subject of ventilation, recommending the case window as advantageous in that it might be kept open with no inconvenience in all kinds of weather. He made several suggestions as to the care that should be given school buildings. "Every school building should be in care of a janitor, but he should not be allowed to sweep or dust the floors, the walls or the blackboards," he said. He stated that oiled cloths were prepared for that purpose and that if nothing better could be obtained, wet cloths might be used; but the janitor himself should not be compelled to breathe the chalk-dust or the germ-laden dust brought in from the outside on the shoes, as dust is the most harmful of health-weakening agents.

Dr. Ellsworth in the simplest language addressed the younger children, talking for his subject The Skin. The children were caught by his home-like manner and his choice of words and accorded him a remarkably close attention. Later, in the presence of the mothers, Dr. Ellsworth dwelt upon several important topics, one of them being the nature and results of adenoids. He urged the need of having this harmful surplus tissue removed as soon as possible. In regard to the health of mothers and daughters he said, "Let your girls be 'tom-boys.' Remove all pressure of clothing from their chests and abdomens and let them have the same privileges of fresh air and exercise that you allow your boys. If you do not, you will have a weakened posterity. If you will give your girls every chance to develop strong and healthy bodies you will produce a race that is capable of controlling these United States—and the world, if necessary."

Rev. H. B. Trimble after addressing the little folks in his inimitable way, spoke to the parents on social dependence and co-operation in relation to the campaign for health betterment. He brought out strongly the responsibility that everyone bears to the welfare of his fellow-citizen.

Dr. Pollard spoke of the indifference of most children and even some grown-up people to the use of the tooth-brush. His talk was simple and practical along the line of the everyday care of the teeth. He said, "You can not begin too early to care the children's teeth." He called attention to the special need of every tooth and the impairing of the digestion that follows the loss of any one of them.

Dr. Durand, the friend of the Orphan's Home, laid stress upon the subject, calling himself a "crank" upon that subject. He emphasized a few principles in the combination of various food elements.

Rev. Mr. Hickok near the close of the all day program in referring to all that had been said before used the language of the man who plied the prayer over his bed and each night, "Them's my sentiments." He expressed himself as heartily in favor of the movement for a broader health education.

All of the speakers commended highly the Health Day movement and many of them paid tribute to the work the Civic League is doing in our city. Everyone endorsed the Health campaign and expressed their surprise at the spirit already awakened in the Ramble school children.

The School Improvement Association and the faculty of Ramble school take this opportunity of publicly expressing their thanks to those who so graciously responded to their invitation to visit the school on that day and render their valued contributions to the cause of health for the school and the community.

New School Organizations.

Every week, it would seem, sees some new organization at Jones school. The newest of these are the Culture Club and the "M. R." (M. Rose) Debating Society. The Culture Club is composed of the Jones school teachers and the teachers of all the other schools are invited to join it. The meetings are held on Monday afternoons at 3:30 at Jones school. At the last meeting Miss Schaeffer addressed the body on "The Personal Appearance of the Teacher." Dress and its effect upon the child was touched upon and will be considered at length in the next meeting.

The "M. R." Debating Society is formed of the students in the eighth grade in correlation with the Hamp Williams Story Telling Club. This organization meets every two weeks, the membership fee being ten cents per month and admission to the audience being five cents. The fund thus gathered will be applied in maintaining a student in the eighth grade each year, who is financially unable to attend school without help.

Credit For Home Work.

The custom of giving credit for home work done by students is now carried out in this school. This excellent idea has been favorably looked upon by Supt. Rose, Miss Schaeffer, Mr. Chamberlin and others for some time and will without doubt add to the interest and quality in both school and home work. It is a decidedly practical move. If all of the schools would adopt it, they might find it highly favorable to the interests of the school.

Come to School Day.

Last Monday was set apart as "Come to School Day" at Jones school. An effort was made to secure a full attendance and it met with astonishing success. It was made laughable by some of the little half-day tots' feeling that they must remain in school all day. And it was with much difficulty that they were persuaded to go home.

Preparations for Track Meet.

At the last principals' meeting Mr. Chamberlain was elected to take charge of and engineer the spring track meet. The boys in all the schools are now eagerly engaged in training for the coming events.
